

Birmingham Fastener Announces the Opening of Three New Locations

Birmingham Fastener announced it has opened two new branch locations for fourth quarter: New York Fastener and Iowa Fastener. This is in addition to the new Houston location that was opened earlier this year, which is the company's second manufacturing facility. These new additions to the Birmingham Fastener family are a testament to the hard work the team has put in, and the company looks forward to succeeding and growing alongside these new locations.

New York Fastener, based in Elmira, New York, will be led by General Manager Jason Rusnak; and Iowa Fastener, based in Ankeny, Iowa, will be led by General Manager Joe Miller. These locations will focus on distribution and Vendor Managed Inventory (VMI) sales in New York and Iowa.

The new manufacturing and distribution facility in Houston, TX, led by General Manager James Province will spearhead the company's efforts to serve the oil and natural gas industry and manufactures studs and threaded products.

"Surround yourself with good people, give them the tools they need to be successful, and get out of the way," said Brad Tinney, CEO of Birmingham Fastener. "We thank all the good folks that made this dream a reality."
